Western Museum of Flight, (11:00 am to 2:00 pm); <http://www.wmof.com/>

The WMOF event was attended by Anna Marie Flowers, Dan Hall, Bill & Irene Hall, and about 100 other aviation enthusiasts. Ginette Aleony also dropped for a moment just prior to the event to say "Hello". The weather was very high overcast, but good visibility below. However none of that affected us, since the four of us drove in.

The special event was a special preview presentation of "The Legend of Pancho Barnes, and the Happy Bottom Riding Club". The presentation was made by Nick Spark, who is the Producer of the documentary film, in affiliation with KOCE-TV (PBS).

WOW ! We all agreed that both the presentation and film preview were both EXCELLENT & FUN to listen to. We didn't want to leave and all came away wanting to know more. There is a LOT of history, both local & aviation to take in, and a very 'colorful' story & personality. I can't possibly do justice to the presentation or clip so I'd prefer to let them speak for themselves, and strongly encourage you to take a look....
